

50 FACTS ON KENYA - Did You Know.....

Not seeing images? View online.

2/4/2010

Official U.S. Navy Photo

Did You Know ...

Kenya is the global leader in prosecuting pirates.

50 FACTS ON KENYA

To learn more about Kenya visit www.kenya.info.

- ▶ The United States, Britain and the European Union have signed agreements allowing for piracy suspects to be tried in Kenya.
- ▶ In 2006, Kenya established the Maritime Rescue Coordination Center in the port city of Mombasa, designed to provide a rapid response to acts of piracy.

Source: The Times
www.timesonline.co.uk/tol/news/world/africa/article6950951.ece

Source: Law.com
www.law.com/jsp/article.jsp?id=1202429986132

Source: IMO
www.imo.org/Newsroom/mainframe.asp?topic_id=1322&doc_id=6316

No 07

This material is distributed by Chlopak, Leonard, Schechler & Associates on behalf of the Office of the President of the Republic of Kenya. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

S774

Benjamin Breit

From: Benjamin Breit
Sent: Wednesday, February 03, 2010 2:31 PM
To: Kenya
Subject: Kenya researcher receives top environmental award, praises Kenya's commitment to conservation

DAILY NATION

Kenya researcher receives top environmental award, praises Kenya's commitment to conservation

February 3, 2010

A Kenyan researcher and conservationist has been awarded the prestigious World Ecology Award, highlighting the country's longstanding commitment to the environment.

Dr. David Western, a former Kenya Wildlife Service director and founder of the African Conservation Center in Kenya, will receive the 2010 World Ecology Award from the Harris World Ecology Center at the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

The award is presented to an eminent individual who has raised public awareness about global ecology and made significant contributions to environmental protection and biodiversity conservation. Previous recipients include Ted Turner and John Denver.

Dr. Western has spent more than 42 years engaged in research in Kenya studying the interactions between livestock, wildlife and humans, with the aim of developing conservation strategies applicable at an ecosystem scale.

In accepting the honor, Dr. Western commended the Kenyan government's commitment to conservation.

"Eight percent of our land is set aside for national parks and we still have lots of wildlife that migrates freely," said Dr. Western. "Very few other countries have that."

During his helm at the KWS, he introduced an eco-tourism concept known as "Parks Beyond Parks," which allowed people to live in harmony with the animals as they benefit from the proceeds from the parks.

Kenyan Nobel laureate Wangari Maathai lauded Western for his persistence: "People with such dreams and convictions have a fire which you cannot put out."

To read the entire article, click here. For more information on Dr. Western, click here.

For more information, please contact Ben Breit at (202) 777-3514 or bbreit@clsdc.com.

This material is distributed by Chlopak, Leonard, Schechter & Associates on behalf of the Office of the President of the Republic of Kenya. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.